MANY ARE INJURED MONDAY

Mrs. Grubb Dies At Hospital 12 Hours After Crash

One woman was fatally injured and another is at the City Hospital in a critical as the result of an accident Monday morning when a Lima-Springfield traction car crashed into an automobile at the Kibby-st intersection.

Mrs. Malinda Grubb, 52, of 372 S. Jackson-st, died at the City hospital twelve hours after the accident. She was thrown against the front seat of the car and her chest crushed. Mrs. Hannah J. Long, sister of Mr. Grubb, 504 Holmes-st, was seriously cut and lacerated about the face.

W. E. Grubb, Miss Lola Ballard, of Lima, and Mr. and Mrs. James McCarty, 126 S. Metcalf-st, other occupants of the car escaped uninjured.

The accident occurred at 11 a. m. while the party were driving to the Grubb family reunion at Lafayette. Rain obstructed the view of McCarty who was driving the car and he drove on the tracks directly in front of the approaching car.

Neither the automobile or the traction car were traveling at a fast rate of speed. The car was knocked off the track but not seriously damaged. Mrs. Grubb and Mrs. Long were sitting in the back seat, the force of the crash hurling them against the front seat.

Mrs. Grubb leaves besides the husband, one son, John, and a half sister, Mrs. Emma Snyder, both of Lima. No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

SEEK TO HALT BUILDING ELECTRIC POWER LINE

Two applications for orders to restrain the Ohio Power Co. from proceeding with the construction of a high tension line on their lands was filed in common pleas court Tuesday by Amos Thut and W. D. Landers, farmers.

The two men are owners of farms in the heart of Richland-tp. They represent that the corporation is building a power line and seeks to invade their lands for purpose of erecting towers and stringing wires.

Several appropriation actions are already pending in probate court, and injunctions have been applied for by many farmers in common pleas court.

TRIPLE MURDER VICTIMS

SLAYER OF THREE EVADES PUTNAM-CO FARM POSSES

All Clues Fail As Sheriff And Citizens Search

HUNT WILL BE CONTINUED

Murderer May Be Captured Before Nightfall, Is Belief

Charles Shank, farm laborer, alleged slayer of three members of the Tenenwalde family at the home of William Tenenwalde, near Kalida, Saturday, has disappeared as if the earth has swallowed him up.

Clues of every description and from every part of northwestern Putnam, Defiance and Paulding-cos. have been followed by Sheriff Roy N. McCullough, but up to Tuesday noon not a trace of Shank has been found. All clues as to the whereabouts of Shank since he deposited his suitcase at the home of his mother, near Cuba, early Sunday morning, have proved worthless.

Officials who believe they had obtained a clue to the whereabouts of Shank when a stranger was seen entering a swampy lowlands, near Oakwood, Monday night, failed, after Sheriff McCullough, Deputy Sheriff Lee Myers and a searching party had entered the swamp with flashlights and there explored every acre.

CONFERENCE HELD
A conference of officials is being held Tuesday to decide which way next to turn.

Surrounding towns and cities have been notified to be on the lookout for the slayer, as authorities argue there may be possibilities he has boarded a freight train and eluded his pursuers.

Sentinels placed over the country have been ordered to report the slightest trace of Shank.

Guards have been placed at Columbus Grove to watch the Harry Teegarden home, to which, officials say, Shank may endeavor to return. He has been employed as farm hand by Teegarden the past summer.

Testimony given by Walter and Earl Shank, brother and cousin, respectively of the murderer, at a questioning in the sheriff's office Monday, disclosed the fact that Shank frequently offered to treat them to drinks, they said, and officials are of the opinion he may be lying in a corn-field in a drunken stupor in some remote part of the county.

YEGGS GET $1,000 IN NIGHT JOB

Professionals Enter Potter Grocery Leaving No Clues

MAN IS BEATEN AND ROBBED

John O'Dowd Loses Life Savings In Afternoon Battle

Safe crackers early Tuesday morning worked the combination on a large steel safe at the William Potter grocery, St. Johns-rd, looted it of $1,034 and escaped, leaving footprints behind as the only clue.

A back door was jammed and entrance forced after an unsuccessful attempt had been made to cut away the glass in the door.

The four way safe combination was worked, the money taken out of a cash drawer and the door of the safe was left ajar when escape was made out of the back door.

DISCOVERS ROBBERY

William Potter, proprietor of the store, discovered the robbery early Tuesday morning and reported it immediately to police who are conducting an investigation.

Potter said his suspicions were aroused when he noticed the back door open. He investigated and discovered his loss. The door of the safe was open and the money gone. Nothing else was disturbed, according to Potter who is checking up on his stock.

In forcing entrance thru a back door the safe crackers used a punny and prised away a portion of the door. A square was cut in the glass but the glass was not removed.

TRACKS IN MUD

Foot tracks showed in the mud outside of the door. Potter stated he noticed them and left them undisturbed for police investigation.

The safe was bare of finger prints which police searched for as a clue. Belief is expressed that rubber gloves were used as the steel surface of its heavy door was clean, leading to the belief that it was dusted off after the job was completed.

The money in the safe, according to Potter, was taken in on Saturday, Sunday morning and Monday. He said it was kept there because the banks were not open.

IDENTIFIES ASSAILANT

With the right side of his face bearing numerous cuts and bruises, John O'Dowd, Rescue Home, victim of two thugs who robbed him in his room Sunday afternoon of $420, appeared in court Tuesday morning and recognized W. M. Brown, negro, as one of his assailants.

Brown was captured by Sergeant Grant and Detective Keller after he leaped from a second story window to the ground. During the pursuit police allege he dropped a vest containing $150.

Brown plead not guilty in criminal court Tuesday to two charges—one of grand larceny and the other of assault. His trial is set for 10 a. m. Sept. 6. He was committed to jail in default of bond.

ROBBED IN ROOM

O'Dowd claims Brown is his assailant. He told police he was in his room at the Rescue Home Sunday afternoon when Brown and a man named Henderson entered and attacked him. They beat him over the head with a club, knocked him to the floor and robbed him of $420, it was reported.

Police trapped Brown at the home, they state, and in his wild dash for liberty he jumped from the second story to the ground where he was captured.

AMERICAN EMBASSY DESTROYED

U. S. CONSUL AND WIFE ARE KILLED

Victims of Great Earthquake Disaster In Japan—American Embassy Buildings are Wrecked—Red Cross to Rush Assistance

SHANGHAI—(Associated Press)—The United States consul general at Yokohama and his wife were killed in the disaster, according to radio message from the steamship Jefferson at Yokohama. Their names were not given.

WASHINGTON—(Associated Press)—All members of the American embassy staff at Tokio are safe.

Ambassador Woods advised the state department today in the first message received from him since the earthquake that none of the embassy staff was injured, although all embassy buildings were totally destroyed.

Coincidentally, the state department received a dispatch from American Consul Davis at Shanghai saying that Tokio, Yokohama and Yokosuka had been "completely wiped out." Casualties among foreigners he said, had been "very numerous."

Consul Davis confirmed that Max D. Kirjasoff, American consul at Yokohama, and his wife, are dead. His dispatch, dated at noon today and based on information received from the steamship President Jefferson, said:

"Yokohama completely wiped out by earthquake and fire. Tokio and Yokosuka also. Refugees report Nisyanashita and Hakone also destroyed. Admiral Oriental line office ruined, everything lost, all employees safe."

"All houses on bluff and Grand hotel Orient are gone, suggest Asiatic fleet send fast ships at once. Relief urgently needed, doctors, nurses and medical supplies. Publish a navigation warning all ships leaving lights approaching Yokohama are all out north of Nikimoto except Asuta. Unsafe approach inside breakwater Yokohama bottom came up."

RED CROSS AID

WASHINGTON—(Associated Press)—Inauguration of the American Red Cross of a five million dollar campaign for relief of the Japanese earthquake sufferers was announced today by Eliot Wadsworth treasurer of the organization after a conference with President Coolidge, Secretary Hoover and Japanese Ambassador Hanihara.

The campaign will be started tomorrow and will be conducted thru Red Cross chapters throughout the country in much the same manner as during the war. Quotas will be allotted the various chapters and the whole Red Cross machinery devoted intensively to raising the money.

The proposal received the unqualified approval of President Coolidge and also has the sanction of Ambassador Hanihara.

WASHINGTON—(Associated Press)—President Coolidge was said at the White House today to be determined that the United States government should put all its resources at the disposal of those endeavoring to afford relief to the Japanese people.

GREAT CITIES ARE REDUCED TO WRECKAGE

River In Japan Is Clogged With Bodies Of Victims

MANY CRAZED DROWN SELVES

Capital And Other Communities Completely Destroyed

SAN FRANCISCO—(Associated Press)—Casualties from the earthquake and fire total 500,000, and 300,000 houses have been burned, it is estimated by the Metropolitan police of Tokio, according to a courier from Oyama who reported today at Tamioka to the Radio Corporation of America. The report, received in San Francisco this morning said the Imperial Palace was being guarded by one regiment of infantry, a battalion of engineers and the Imperial guard division.

TOKIO—(Associated Press)—Innumerable bodies of earthquake victims are clogging the river Sumida which flows thru Tokio.

Thousands of frenzied men and women, overcome with excitement and fatigue, went mad and threw themselves into the river when the shocks were occurring.

Thousands of others perished when the bridges across the Sumida river collapsed.

Virtual destruction of Tokio and Yokohama are reported in the first direct communication received from Tokio by the outside world since earthquake and tidal wave, followed by fire, laid waste an important section of Hondo, chief island of Japan, last Saturday. The communication was from an Associated Press staff correspondent.

The first comprehensive view of the havoc wrought was received in cable advices from Osaka.

It appears from these that the disaster is greater than previous reports have indicated. The ministry of marine estimates the dead in Tokio alone at 150,000; the best estimates place the dead in Yokohama at 100,000; virtual destruction of Nagoya, town of 60,000 is reported, and Yokosuka, a town of 70,000, is said to have been wiped out by the successive attacks of earthquake, tidal wave and fire.

Grave damage has been done in the summer resort sections about Hakone and on the Izu peninsula. Monetary loss in Tokio alone is placed at five billion yen.

Martial law is effective in the stricken cities; none may enter without the most urgent reasons or without carrying their own food supplies.

THOUSANDS STARVING

More than 3,500,000 bushels of rice are being rushed from southern Japanese ports and from Korea to the stricken regions, where thousands are reported starving and, suffering from thirst because the earthquake wrecked the water supply system. Water is being doled out there by the same relief workers who are distributing the inadequate supplies of food the government has been able to transport thither.

The death or injury of several members of the royal house is feared, tho the emperor, empress and prince regent are safe.

Reports that the new premier, count Yamamoto, has been assassinated are current, but there is little confirmation for any stronger statement than that he was attacked and that the attackers' aim was frustrated. The attack is said to have been made at a meeting in the Navy Club where a number of statesmen were forming the new cabinet.

The floor collapsed, but the meeting was continued in an adjoining building and its business completed. Viscount Takahashi and 15 others are reported to have been killed while attending a party meeting.

Several islands, including Enoshima, were reported to have been

SPINNERS BURIED ALIVE

Eye-Witness Of Disaster Tells Of Appalling Scenes

MANY ARE DEAD AND DYING

Prince Regent Flees Palace To Parts Unknown

The first eye-witness of the disaster along the coast of Japan, and the appalling loss of life and scenes of destruction in Tokyo and Yokohama on Saturday, was brought to Osaka, more than 200 miles south of the Japanese capital, and was the Tokyo correspondent of the Osaka Shimbun. The correspondent made his way out of the shaken and flaming city Saturday afternoon, during the height of the disaster. His story follows:

OSAKA, Japan.—(United Press)—My last sight of Tokyo was at 3 p. m. on Saturday.

At that time, in the midst of unchecked fires and repeated shocks, I saw people trying vainly to reach safety, heedless of hundreds of corpses in the streets.

The disaster had come upon Tokyo about three hours earlier.

The first shock was felt at a little before noon Saturday. The center of the quake was then believed to have been at the bottom of the sea, near Oshima Island, about 50 miles southwest of us.

It came in the form of a dozen terrible, vertical, four inch wave movements, the earth beneath us rising and falling.

Within an hour, the quake had somewhat subsided, but tremors continued.

FIRE FOLLOWS

The conflagration followed the shaking of pieces of Tokyo and Yokohama. Yokohama was almost completely destroyed as were the districts of Giebha, Kantagawa, Shiruoka and Saitama.

The extent of the damage and casualties was at first incalculable. At the time, I estimated that nearly 200 houses had been destroyed in Tokyo and that a like number of inhabitants had been killed and injured.

The crown prince's palace, nearly all the buildings of our government, the Bank of Japan, the Imperial University and library, department stores, theatres, public halls, all the newspaper offices—these were totally destroyed.

The imperial palace itself was heavily damaged.

The magnificent new "skyscrapers" of which Tokyo was proud, and which had been recently completed in front of the Central station, were destroyed.

PRINCE REGENT FLEES

Our prince regent, who fled from the imperial palace at the first shock, later returned to a somewhat detached structure which at first was judged safe. But as the danger continued, he fled again from the city and thru Takasaki, 60 miles to the northwest. His destination is unknown.

One of the most terrible occurrences of these first brief hours in the crumbling, burning capital was when the government printing office collapsed and several hundred employees were pinned in the ruins.

Another tragedy of which we heard early was near Fuji, where 500 girl spinners were killed in the crash of a factory.

When I left Tokyo, frantic refugees were struggling to escape thru streets piled with corpses.

The tremendous convulsions of the earth had broken the gas mains of the city and this was followed by numerous fires. The gas became ignited and a hurricane-like wind that blew in from the bay following the shocks, fanned the flames and whipped them to every part of the city. Houses burned like matchboxes. The fire gained headway until it was impossible to think of checking it. The great wind picked up huge blazing timbers and hurled them along until soon the entire city was in flames.

In the path of the devouring tongues of fire that licked their way, consuming blocks after blocks of flimsy, crowded houses, injured persons, pinned down by wreckage of the quakes, were burned alive. Their shrieks filled the air, but none could rescue them.

CITY NOT AFTER MILL LEVY

Action Must Come From Outside Bingham Says

Officials responsible for the management of the city will not ask the voters, at the November election, to authorize a one mill levy to meet the general city expenses, they said at city hall Tuesday.

City Manager C. A. Bingham said that he knows absolutely nothing about any move to get a one mill levy authorized by the voters. "It is all news to me and I certainly have not suggested that the taxpayers be asked to authorize such a levy," he said.

Major Frank Hume, city clerk, said that he knew absolutely nothing about any proposed one mill levy to meet general city expenses, although the city needs the money, he said.

City Auditor C. H. Churchill said he had no definite knowledge of any plan to ask for the levy and that he is not initiating any such movement.

None of these officials, and very few of the city employees generally, knew anything about any meeting called for Wednesday night to boost the proposed one mill levy, they said. Major Hume said that one day last week Fire Chief John Mack asked if he could use the city hall auditorium Wednesday night for a meeting.

Fire Chief John Mack said Tuesday that he was responsible for calling the meeting of Wednesday night. "Neither the city commissioners nor City Manager Bingham knew anything about it," said he. "I took the responsibility myself."

The chief said that he called it because fire underwriters threaten to boost insurance rates 10 percent, which he says would add $125,000 to the tax duplicate. The chief said that under the law Lima is entitled to a fireman for every 1,000 of population and that a one mill levy will provide for four additional firemen and five additional policemen. This, he said, would bring the total number of firemen to 40 and the total number of policemen to 33. He figures the levy should run from three to five years and that it will bring in about $50,000 per year.

OPPOSITION SEEN AGAINST CODE

City Commission May Refuse To Accept Document

TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

Amended Code Provides Plans For $5,000 Homes

Strong opposition is developing in the city commission to the section of the proposed building code which would require any one planning to build a home costing $5,000 to have the plans drawn by an architect. It developed at city hall Tuesday.

Likewise the city commissioners are opposed to any plan to rush thru legislation putting the proposed code into effect, they said Tuesday.

When the proposed code was submitted about a year ago one of the stumbling blocks was the provision requiring an architect's plans. Mayor Harold Cunningham said Tuesday. The code committee then exempted homes and buildings under $5,000 valuation from this provision. According to Peter M. Hulsken, chairman of the code committee, the amended code carries the provision for the services of an architect if the structure is to cost $5,000 or more.

Commissioners seen Tuesday appeared to oppose even this limitation and indicated that they will not vote for it when it comes before them.

SECTION IS OPPOSED

Mayor Cunningham said that he felt that the home builder, especially the person of moderate means, should not be hampered in that manner by being compelled to undergo the expense that is not necessary. He said he felt that $5,000 was a pretty low figure at which to require the man wanting to build a home to have architect's plans.

Commissioner Earl Rohn was more emphatic. "That figure is too low," said he. The commissioner also said that he is opposed to any railroad of legislation to put the code into effect.

Commissioner Ellis Jones took a similar attitude, saying that the code should have careful consideration and pointed out that the requirement for an architect's services was one of the things that blocked code legislation in the city commission a year ago.

Tuesday evening Chairman Hulsken of the code committee will appear before the commissioners and present the code as amended since it was turned down a year ago. City commissioners said there is no chance that the code will be gone over Tuesday evening, the admitting that at least one section will probably be studied. They favor taking plenty of time and a number of conferences to deal with the subject. Commissioner Rohn says that each commissioner should be furnished with a copy of the proposed code and given time to study it before the conferences start and then each man will know just what is in the proposed code and can have his objections ready when the conferences begin.

FACING FORGERY CHARGES

Frank Cotner To Get Hearing In Justice Court

With three charges of forgery staring him in the face, Frank R. Cotner, former bank official, Lafayette, will make his first effort to win freedom, when he comes before Justice of the Peace E. M. Botkin for preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Cotner, who voluntarily surrendered to the authorities, is at liberty on $300 bond. He pleaded not guilty, and told Justice Botkin, that he would easily prove his innocence. Charges against the former banker are brought by Clyde Snyder and C. A. Clum, whose signatures he is alleged to have imitated in order to procure funds.

Two checks purporting to have been drawn by Snyder were for $107 and $24 each. The third check, was for $6, and was signed C. A. Clum. Two checks were drawn on the bank of Lafayette.

Cotner is a man of mature age. According to court officers, he formerly worked in a bank.

"I can explain all," he told the court. "If I only have the chance."

SPEED OF BUSES CRITICISED

State Utilities Commission To Probe Kenton Accident

The state public utilities commission which is in receipt of numerous complaints against alleged reckless operation of motor buses thruout the state was Tuesday awaiting a report of an accident Saturday near Kenton where a Marion-Lima Red Star bus collided with an automobile, resulting in both vehicles overturning and toppling into a ditch and injuring three men and a woman. The Red Star bus, it was said, collided with the automobile driven by a farmer as it turned onto the Harding highway from a side road.

The Cleveland Automobile Club Tuesday registered a general complaint against alleged reckless driving and "road hogging" by the interurban buses.

John H. Miller, supreme attorney for the United Commercial Travelers on behalf of R. W. Mott, a traveling salesman of Lancaster, complained against alleged reckless driving of the Red Star buses between Salina and Washington Courthouse, also against the same company's buses operated between Greenfield and Washington Courthouse.

E. L. Hukill, of Cleveland, filed an affidavit with the commission complaining that the Red Star line operating out of Cleveland had violated the law against crowding the driver of the machine. His affidavit said two persons were in the front seat with the driver when it left the public square recently.

Members of the utilities commission say they are greatly handicapped in properly supervising operation of buses because of lack of inspectors. The emergency board has allowed the commission a total of $8,566 for operating the bus department of which $2,916 is for salary of head of the department for ten months and $1,650 for a clerk.

RESPECT FOR LAW IS ASKED

Ohio C. E. Union Starts Campaign Against Un-Americans

Ohio Christian Endeavor Union, at a meeting of the board of trustees held Monday in Columbus, decided on a campaign to instill into the minds of the people respect for all law. The slogan adopted is "Good Americans respect their laws."

Rev. E. Bruce Jacobs, pastor of Calvary Reformed church, and in charge of Christian citizenship work among Ohio Endeavorers, attended the meeting of the board.

"It is the feeling of Christian Endeavor leaders that we must begin at the very foundation of this question. We must not only ask people to obey the law, we must inculcate respect for law as the fundamental institution of our country," declared Rev. Jacobs.

There are various agencies professing to stand for law enforcement, who just as individuals often do, break such laws as they do not approve of. They justify the violations of such laws by saying that these laws are unjust. But the only attitude which we may rightfully hold to any law, is that it must be strictly obeyed until it can be changed. It is never Christian to break any law," Rev. Jacobs said.

TAFT TAX MEASURE IS CONDEMNED BY KNIGHT

WOOSTER, Ohio.—Former Congressman Charles L. Knight of Akron, speaking at a Kiwanis club luncheon here today declared "Ohio has the worst taxation laws in the United States and we are doing our best to perpetuate them."

Condemning the Taft act, which it allowed to stand, he said, means that henceforth and indefinitely the burden of taxation in Ohio must be borne by real estate, while the intangible wealth of the state goes untaxed. The act, he declared, should be nullified by the people, if only for this reason.

LIST OF ASSETS OF LATE T. REED DUNLAP IS FILED

List of assets of the estate of the late T. Reed Dunlap, union king, subject to inheritance tax, was filed in probate court Tuesday.

The exact total which will be taxable has not been figured, Judge J. H. Hamilton said.

POLICE NAB TWO IN RAIDS

Roy Clements-Mrs. Ersman Cited On Liquor Charges

Two persons were cited on liquor law violation charges and eight gallons of purported "moonshine" confiscated in raids by local police over Labor day.

Roy Clements, 811 S. Main-st, was placed under $2,000 bond on a charge of possession after police claim they trapped him as he went to a hiding place in a barn where he had a 10 gallon keg half full of alleged liquor and a two gallon jug of the same stuff.

Clements and his wife were arrested several days ago on a similar count when police discovered a secret cache at a restaurant said to be operated by Clements on S. Main-st.

Mrs. A. P. Erkman, 203 E. Third-st, was charged with violation of the liquor law. Police claim she had a small amount of contraband. She is under $1,000 bond for appearance in court.

Charles Stanick, 1175 S. Union-st, charged with non-payment of fines for violation of the liquor law, was arrested upon his return here, according to police.

The court granted an extension of time for payment of the fines when information was given that property owned by Stanick is up for sale and part of the proceeds will be used for payment of fines, which are said to amount to $800 on two counts.

SMOOTH TALKER SOUGHT FOR DEFAUDING WOMAN

Police are searching for F. G. Flowers, alias Frank Thomas, wanted here for defrauding a Lima woman of $60 on a check he had her endorse.

According to the complaint entered at police headquarters, Flowers induced the woman to endorse the check payable on the Lima Dime Savings Bank for $60. The check was declared worthless after Flowers left the city.

VAN WERT COUNTY FAIR OPENS

Officials Announce Greatest Program Ever Offered

Officials of the Van Wert County fair declared Tuesday that the largest race entry list in the history of the fair had been received and that the horse-racing feature alone promises to be an attraction worth seeing. Entries for the many races closed two days ago.

Several of the racing events will be put on in divisions in order to give horsemen a chance. A big racing program will be staged during the week and this with the fine program of exhibits and free attractions insure a great week for fair visitors.

Merchants and Art Hall, Agricultural Hall are full of overhanging and the decorations are such as to make the place most inviting. The large cattle pavilion is completely reserved and additional pens have been built for the hog show, which is the largest ever held at the fair. The horse show will be of especial interest this year.

The Van Wert County fair, which opens Tuesday, will continue Saturday.

LONG'S CONDITION CRITICAL

Bellefontaine Man Injured In Fight Semi-Conscious

Charles Long, 27, of Bellefontaine, is still fighting for his life at St. Rita's hospital.

He has been lying in a state of semi-consciousness since last Wednesday, due to a fracture of the skull received in a fight at the Auglaize-co fair grounds.

Physicians have declared his condition to be very critical and little hope has been expressed for his recovery. His case is believed to be similar to that of Roberta Blodgett, 11-year-old girl, who recovered from a fractured skull after being in a state of coma for several weeks. Miss Blodgett has been able to talk since August 22 and can now walk around the house with someone helping her. She is believed to be safely on the road to complete recovery.

Long's condition was reported as being unchanged Tuesday by hospital officials. He is delirious at times and is suffering great pain.

ACTIVITIES OF FARM BUREAU

19 Poultry Culling Demonstrations Held

DRAIN BEING USED AS FEED

Considerable Cattle Shipped By Live Stock Co.

Approximately 2,500 birds have been inspected in the 19 poultry culling demonstrations staged by the Allen-co Farm Bureau this year, H. J. Ridge, county agent, announced Saturday. These demonstrations have been attended by 225 people.

Poultry tuberculosis has been discovered in about 90 per cent of the birds tested, C. E. Peters, poultry expert, said. The disease seems to be common throughout the county and farmers have been warned against its spreading.

Demonstrations will be continued this week. Two flocks will be culled Tuesday, one at the farm of Peter C. Herr, north of Bluffton, and the other at the farm of Louis Niswander, south of Bluffton. Thursday one demonstration will be held in Shawnee-tp at the home of R. G. Stockton. All farmers in the neighborhood of these farms are asked by Ridge to bring their sick chickens to the demonstrations to be tested.

More grain is being used as feed by farmers this year than ever before, County Agent Ridge declared Saturday. About 600,000 bushels of oats will be produced in Allen-co this year and the great majority of this has been used as feed.

Wheat is also being fed to cattle, hogs and chickens, to a great extent. It is estimated that nearly 40,000 bushels of wheat will be used as feed this year. This is thousands of bushels more wheat than has ever been used by farmers as feed in former years.

Overproduction, resulting in the low price of grain is given as the reason for this move.

At present market prices it is more valuable for farmers to feed wheat than to sell it. Wheat fed to hogs now will bring over a dollar a bushel in value for the grain. Used for chicken feed it will bring about $1.25 a bushel or 30 cents more than it sold by the bushel.

Wheat is better than corn for some feeding purposes Ridge declares. Recent experiments show that 433 pounds of wheat will produce 100 pounds of pork compared with 582 pounds of corn for the same amount of pork.

Wheat acreage in the county was about 16,000 acres this year. This will be considerably cut down next year, Ridge declares.

Farmers in the county are also storing wheat individually. The no-co-operative attempt to store wheat has been made, it is estimated, that 75 per cent of the grain in the county has been privately stored waiting for higher market prices.

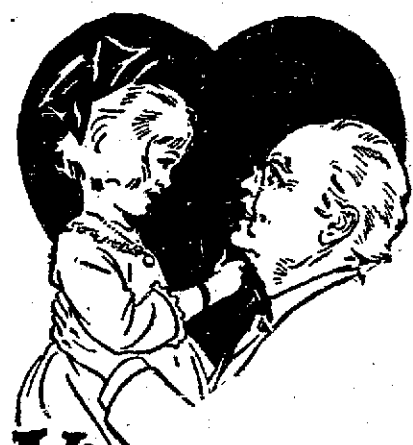

American-tp farm bureau will hold its regular monthly meeting at the William Klingler farm, N. West-tp, Wednesday night. Bath-tp and Monroe-tp will combine with American-tp in the meeting. The meeting is to be a special program and ice cream social. A small charge will be made and proceeds given to the Allen-co Child Welfare Association.

Tomato canning should be started at once, farm bureau officials advised. The early crop of tomatoes was only fair and the late crop is not very extensive. Prices have reached their lowest level for the season, according to predictions by farmers.

Five loads were shipped by the Allen-co Live Stock Co. during the past week. Two loads were shipped from Beaverdam, one load each from Spencerville, Kemp and Cairo. About 300 sheep were shipped and the balance of the cars carried hogs. All cars were sent to Cleveland. C. F. Mertz, manager of the live stock company, and J. A. Votz will drive to Cleveland this week to handle the sale of 75 hogs. They will bring two decks of lambs back with them for William Klingler and Walter Bowers.

Farm bureau officials will start a campaign during September for the selection of field seed corn to determine the best field corn for Allen-co.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholesomeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakness, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care free time of life.

WHEN YOU DIE

At some unknown date in the future, your heart will stop beating. What then? Death, of course. But what is death? Read the strange case of eight-year-old Jack Leaney, of Stratford, Canada.

He was ill, in agony. At 10 at night, his heart fluttered and ceased beating. Physicians applied every test known to science "It's all over," they announced gravely. "The lad is dead."

But shortly after midnight, two hours later, his heart began beating again. He breathed. Life was miraculously restored to the only for three hours. At 5 in the morning, he died for the second time. This death was final. Jack Leaney is buried, gone into the Hereafter.

Medical journals soon will be discussing this.

It is possible to bring a man "back to life" after the heart has stopped beating, by injecting adrenalin, most powerful of heart stimulants. But only under certain conditions, usually when the sick man expires from the anaesthetic during an operation. Even then, according to medical rule, adrenalin must be injected within a few minutes after the heart stops beating.

The Jack Leaney case is one of the greatest mysteries in medical history. The doctors, of course, finally will decide that the lad's first "death" was really a condition of suspended animation, form of trance. But isn't "suspended animation" a good description of his second death—of all deaths?

YOU see a man driving an auto. It runs along smoothly. Then goes dead, stops. A little tinkering . . . a broken-down part replaced with a new one . . . and the auto runs again. If the collapse of the mechanism is too emphatic, the owner buys a new car.

Our bodies are the autos driven by our spirits. The auto wears out. The driver gets a new car.

PAINLESS BRANDING

CATTLE, exported to England from Canada, will be painlessly tattooed on the ear instead of branded with a hot iron. This results from protests by societies for prevention of cruelty to animals.

Speaking of cruelties, we wonder how many members of these societies eat beef? Admirable to treat animals humanely. Some day men will recognize the infliction of death as the supreme cruelty. Then the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Plant Life will come to bat.

POWER OF WIND

THE wind, blowing a gale, picks up a kite and also lifts Vita Cicio, the lad clinging to the end of the kite string. Vita is yanked from the roof of a three-story building in Brooklyn, N. Y. The wind holds him struggling and yelling in the air for a moment, then gently lowers him to within a few feet of the pavement when he finishes his trip fast. Bruised, but alive.

In that wind is a force that some day will be harnessed to do a large part of our work. Watt got the idea of the steam engine by seeing steam lift the lid of a tea kettle—a demonstration puny compared with what happened to Vita Cicio. Here's your chance, inventors.

TODDLING

No matter how early or how late the bambino begins toddling he can't please everybody. Therefore he has my sympathy. If he tries to walk a little too early in the estimation of Mrs. Neighbor he will probably have bow legs or flat feet or something. And if he takes his own good time about it, and waits until he is 15 or 16 months old, Mrs. Neighbor is afraid his mind isn't normal.

The average healthy baby makes his first voluntary muscular efforts when he is about 4 months old, when he begins to grasp things deliberately; it is in the fourth month that he learns to hold his head erect when the trunk is carefully supported. Yet many a parent handles a baby as carelessly as tho he could do these things when only a few weeks old. Not until the seventh or eighth month, can a baby sit up unsupported. In the ninth or tenth month the younger bambino gets fancy notions in his head and tries to get up on his feet by pulling himself up in his crib or by grabbing hold of grandpa's whiskers; if there isn't too much excitement over this he becomes so proficient by the time he is 11 or 12 months old that he can stand on his feet for a moment without any assistance at all. After this there is no holding him. In almost no time at all he'll be running around the yard like a fence.

From this stage, say the age of 16 months, the bambino, if well born, emulates Christopher Columbus. He is forever eager to set out on voyages of discovery; in many cases he discovers the neighbors, who, up to the moment, have been absolute strangers. Bambini are great little social organizers or ice crackers. No matter how early in his career the toddler starts trying his legs, let him try. Do not attempt to restrain him on the theory that he is so heavy and so young that he'll make himself bow legged, for he won't. On the other hand it is unwise to urge or teach the baby to attempt to walk before he is a year old, or to equip him with apparatus of any kind which favors too early walking.

Certainly a baby requires no shoes before he is old enough to walk; after he begins toddling the less shoes the better. Soft moccasins or soft soled sandals or other footwear should be preferred, for the normal development and strengthening of a baby's feet. It is a shame to put hard, still soled shoes on an

This Little World

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—A hectic time is ahead of C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, if his new job contemplates his cushioning all the contacts between Congress and the chief executive, in the opinion of William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives.

"Bascom was one of the insiders in the House for the last several sessions," Page says, "but, alas! Times have changed."

"A lot of the old leaders with whom he worked—Uncle Joe, Frank Mondell, Phil Campbell and others—are gone."

"There'll be more than 130 new faces in Congress Dec. 3, and they'll be an independent, undisciplined, difficult crowd to handle. They won't know Bascom and they won't care. Their independence will be intensified by the very fact that the party majority is small—so small that the Wisconsin delegation alone will hold the balance of power."

"It'll take a Machiavelli to maintain harmony between Congress and the White House next winter, or I miss my guess."

Under the surface, official Washington is perturbed by Newton D. Baker's announcement that he'll bring the League of Nations issue to the front in addresses he will deliver following his return from Europe.

Baker is recognized as one of the most eloquent of Democratic orators and as perhaps closer to former President Wilson than any other member or by opponents within his own party. But Adams goes serenely along, with a firm grip on the throttle of the old machine.

When the new candidate is elected Adams will hand in his resignation, leave him a free hand to pick the man to run his campaign. That is precedent. But in the pre-convention campaign—well, there'll be no swapping of horses at this stage. Too many sniping Indians about.

Nation's Economic Strength Not Weakened, Mason Says

CAN BE STABILIZED ANY TIME

Money Invested By Americans Absolute Loss, However

By J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK—(United Press)—Industrial collapse in Germany is not imminent, nor has the real economic strength of the German people been weakened by the fall of the mark. Despite the fantastic imitation of the collapse of Russian rubles by Germany's paper currency, there is no reason to anticipate that in other respects Germany will go the way of Russia.

Russia's currency degeneracy was coincident with nation-wide starvation and cessation of industry. There is no unemployment in Germany and many classes have been made the victims of food profiteers, there is ample food in the country for all. Expansion of German industry has not suffered because of the fall in the exchange rate.

German shipbuilding is second only to Great Britain's. Construction of new buildings is proceeding in the principal German centers at a good rate. The industrialists of Germany are improving their plants and putting in more modern machinery. Everywhere Germans are keeping pace with progress in other countries.

NO LETUP IN PRODUCTION

The decline in the value of the mark has not been caused by any real letup in production. The German people have the goods with which to pay the government's expenses if the government would only assess taxes on a proper basis. This would automatically stabilize the mark. The artificiality of Germany's depressed currency is demonstrated by the fact that the actual wealth in goods of the German people has been constantly increasing while the mark falls.

There has been no loss in wealth whatever to the German nation thru the decline of the mark. Wealth has changed hands inside Germany, but the German nation as a whole has gained enormously because marks purchased abroad will never be redeemed at anything like the purchase price.

Americans in large numbers bought marks as a speculation when marks were selling at from one to four for a cent. The drop from that price to forty thousand for a cent means the hundreds of millions of American dollars used for speculating in German currency have gone forever. Gone, that is to say, out of American pockets a pay for raw materials which are providing a considerable part of the basis of Germany's present prosperity.

WILL NEVER COME BACK

Marks will never come back. There is no record in history of a currency depreciated far less destructively than Germany's ever being restored to parity. To do so would be too costly for the industrialists and financiers who have made so much by the mark's decline. Germany will fix a new rate for the mark, whenever the time seems appropriate to those in charge of German world policy. That new rate, whatever it is, will not harm the Stabilization in Germany is a mechanical matter of making taxes equal expenses. The German government can do this any time it desires, because of the real prosperity of the country. It will make no difference for the future on what basis the mark is stabilized. It can be done at a million marks for a dollar or ten million. Whenever a stabilization level is reached and is maintained, prices in Germany will quickly adjust themselves to the new base. Thereafter, world price levels will be reached and the German people can resume saving, knowing that marks will purchase approximately the same one week as the next.

ITALY SEEKING FAMOUS GEM

Ex-Empress Zita May Be Prevented From Disposing Of Stone

GENEVA — (United Press) — Rome messages indicate that the Italian government will try to prevent ex-Empress Zita disposing of the famous diamond known as the "Florentine," which formerly adorned the family jewel chest of the Habsburgs.

The stone was pledged, with other jewels, by the ex-Empress Karl, to a Swiss bank to finance his last ill-fated dash for the Austrian throne but as Zita needs money urgently, she is understood to be selling her right of redemption of these jewels.

The "Florentine" is one of the world's most famous diamonds and weighs 139 1/2 carats. It is valued today at 30,000,000 Italian lire. Its early history is tragic. Four and a half centuries ago a peasant, looting the dead outside the walls of Nancy (France) during the siege of that city by Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy, discovered the jewel on the finger of a body half eaten by wolves. The body was that of Bold Burgundian.

The peasant sold the ring to a Jew for a few silver coins, and through various channels and at ever increasing prices, the "Florentine" found its way to the coffers of the famous Borgia family. Thence in the course of years, and by methods which have always been regarded as of doubtful legality, it reached the Habsburgs.

At the downfall of the Austro-

PATIENT'S DOING WELL, THANKS

"Duke," a valuable airedale, was struck by an auto not long ago on a Pittsburgh street. His second vertebrae was fractured, paralyzing his whole body. Dr. J. C. Gensburg then duplicated the work of a Philadelphia surgeon by putting the dog's neck in a cast. Within 10 days the animal could walk—unsteadily, it is true. But "Duke" is game.

Hungarian empire, the Italian government claimed the "Florentine" among its share of the Austrian crown jewels handed over under the Versailles treaty but the Emperor Karl had other views and took it with him when he left Austria hurriedly. Karl used it to raise money, but the Italian government never admitted the legality of his possession of the jewel, and now that Zita is reported to be selling it, the Rome authorities are taking action to prevent the sale.

MISS BROWN EYES
It is a peculiar situation. If you knew the truth, you would at least know what to do. I certainly should not believe too much in rumors of this and that, though if it be true that the boy has reason to be afraid of your temper, you know what you can do about the temper. Perhaps you can judge whether or not the boy's story was true if you think over the time you went together to see if you can say, judging impartially, that he was altogether devoted to you, and really desired marriage. If he is heart broken, and you are pleasant to him when you see him, you will soon learn whether he is trying to obtain his parents' consent or not going with you because his feelings have changed.

Dear Miss Smart:
Will you please give me the names of some reliable fortune tellers in town?
MISS I THANK YOU
I'm sorry, but I could not do that thru this column. If you will, send a stamped, addressed envelope, I will try and find out the names of one or two.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ned Cornet's car too fast in the rain and goes into a skid. Bess Gilbert, a shopgirl, is thrown to the pavement. When Godfrey Cornet hears of Ned's latest accident he makes up his mind to offer Ned the opportunity of making a man of himself.

The elder Cornet offers his son two thousand silk and velvet gowns to take to Northern Canada and Alaska to exchange with the Indians for fine furs. Godfrey offers to split the profits 75-25, the lion's share to Ned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I haven't had many opportunities for ocean travel," she told him—and whether or not she was laughing at him Ned Cornet couldn't have sworn! Her tone was certainly suspiciously merry. "Mr. Cornet, I'll be glad enough to accompany your party, any time you say."

It was a jesting, hilarious crowd that gathered one sunlit morning to watch the departure of the Charon. Rodney Coburn was there, and Rex Ward, various matrons who were members of Mrs. Hardenworth's bridge club, and an outer and inner ring of satellites that gyrated around such social suns as Ned and Lenore. Every one was very happy, and no one seemed to take the expedition seriously. The idea of Ned Cornet, he of the curly brown hair, in the role of fur trader in the frozen wastes of the North appealed to his friends as being irresistibly comic.

Both Lenore and her mother seemed in a wonderful mood. The ninety-day journey on those far-stretching sunlit waters seemed to promise only happiness for them.

They had dressed according to their idea of the occasion. Lenore wore a beautifully tailored middie suit that was highly appropriate for the garb that Eskimo women wear in the fall journeys in the Oomiacs. Mrs. Hardenworth had a smart tailored suit of small black and white check, a small hat and a beautiful gray veil. Both of them carried winter coats, and both were fitted out with binoculars, cameras, and suchlike oceanic paraphernalia. Knutson, of course, supposed that their really heavy clothes, great mackinaws and slickers with leather-lined woollens, such as are sometimes needed on Bering Sea, were in the trunks he had helped to stow below. In this regard the blond seaman, helmsman and owner of the craft, had made a slight mistake. In a desire for a wealth of silver fox to wear home, both trunks had been filled with discarded gowns to the exclusion of almost everything else.

Ned, in a smart yachting costume, had done rather better by himself. He had talked with Coburn in regard to the outfit, and his duffle bag contained most of the essentials for such a journey. And Bess' big, plain bag was packed full of the warmest clothes she possessed.

Bess did not stand among the happy circle of Ned's friends. Her mother and sister had come down to the dock to bid her goodbye, and they seemed to be having a very happy little time among themselves.

The captain was almost ready to start the launch. McNab, the chief engineer, was testing his engines; Forest, his assistant, stood on the deck; and the negro cook stood grinning at the window of the galley. But presently there was an abrupt cessation of the babble of voices in the group surrounding Ned.

A tall man was pushing thru the crowd, politely asking right of way, his black eyes peering under silver brows. For some inexplicable reason the sound of frolic died before his penetrating gaze.

But the groups caught themselves at once. They must not show fear of this stalwart, aged man with his prophetic eyes. They spoke to him, wishing him good day, and he returned their bows with faultless courtesy. An instant later he stood before his son.

"Mother couldn't get down," Godfrey Cornet said simply. "She sent her love and good wishes. A good trip, Ned—but not too good a trip."

"Why not—too good a trip?" "A little snow, a little cold—maybe a charging Kodiak bear—fine medicine for the spirit, Ned. Good luck!"

He gave his hand, then turned to extend good wishes to Mrs. Hardenworth and Lenore. He seemed to have a queer, hesitant manner when he addressed the latter, as if he had planned to give some further, more personal message, but now was reconsidering it. Then the little group about him suddenly saw his face grow vivid.

"Where's Miss Gilbert?" "The group looked from one to another. As always, they were paying the keenest attention to his every word; but they could not remember hearing this name before. "Miss Gilbert?" his son echoed blankly. "Oh, you mean the seamstress?"

"Of course—the other member of your party."

"She's right there, talking to her mother."

Cornet walked courteously to the girl's side and extended his hand. "Good luck to you, and a pleasant journey," he said, smiling down on her. "And, Miss Gilbert, I wonder if I could give you a charge—"

"I'll do my best—anything you ask—"

"I want you to look after my son, Ned. He's never been away from the comforts of civilization before—and if a button came off, he'd never know how to put it on. Don't let him come to grief, Miss Gilbert. I'm wholly serious—I know what the North is."

He turned and looked away from the group, his eyes fixed on the sea. "I want you to look after my son, Ned. Don't let him take too great a risk. Watch out for his health. There's nothing in this world like a woman's care."

"I'll remember all you told me," Bess told him simply. "Thank you—and a pleasant voyage."

Now the adventurers were getting aboard Mrs. Hardenworth was handing her bag to Knutson—she had mistaken him for a cabin boy—with instructions to carry it carefully and put it in her stateroom; Lenore was bidding a joyous farewell to some of her more intimate friends. The engine roared, the water churned beneath the propeller, the pilot called some order in a strident voice. The boat moved easily from the dock.

Mrs. Hardenworth had made it a point to go immediately to her stateroom, but at once she reappeared on deck. She seemed a trifle more erect, her gray eyes singularly wide open.

"Ned, dear, I wonder if that fellow made a mistake when he pointed out my stateroom," she began rather stiffly. "I want to be sure I've got the right one that you meant for me—"

"It's the one to the right," Ned answered, somewhat unhappily. He followed her along the deck, indicating the room she and her daughter were to occupy. "Did you think he was slipping something over on you, taking a better one himself?"

"I didn't know. You can't ever tell about such men, Ned—you know that very well. Of course if it is the one you intended for me, I'm only too delighted with it—"

"It's really the best on the ship. It's not a big craft, you know; space is limited. I'm sorry it's so small and dark, and I suppose you've already missed the running water. I do hope it won't be too uncomfortable. Of course, you can have the one on the other side, but it's really inferior to this—"

"That's the only other one, Ned. I want you to have the best one—"

"I'm sorry to say I'm not going to have any. Miss Gilbert has to have the other. But there's a corking berth in the pilot house I'm going to occupy."

"I'd never let Miss Gilbert have it!" The woman's eyes flared. "I wouldn't hear of it—you putting yourself out for your servant. Why can't she occupy the berth in the pilot house—"

"I don't mind at all. Really I don't. The girl couldn't be expected to sleep where there are men on watch all night."

At once she returned to her room; but the little scene was not without results. In the first place it implanted a feeling of injury in Ned.

whose habit of mind made him singularly open to suggestion; and in the second it left Mrs. Hardenworth with a distinct prejudice against Bess. She was in a decided ill-humor until tea time, when she again joined Ned and Lenore on the deck.

None of the three could resist a growing elation, a holiday mood such as had lately come but rarely and which was wholly worth celebrating.

"It's a rare day," Ned announced solemnly.

"And heavens! We haven't christened the ship!" Lenora added drolly. "Children, children! Not yet a day out! But you mustn't overdo it, either of you!" Mrs. Hardenworth shook her finger to caution them.

"Now, Ned, have the colored man bring three glasses and water. I'd prefer ginger ale with mine if you don't mind—I'm dreadfully old-fashioned in that regard."

Bess made the very sensible resolve to avoid Ned's society and that of his two guests just as much as possible. She saw at once they were not her kind of people; and they were unpleasantness would result from her intercourse with them.

And her desire to avoid the three aristocrats stood her in good stead before the night was done, saving her as bitted a moment as any that oppressed her in all the steep path of her life. Just after the dinner call had sounded, Lenore, Ned, and Mrs. Hardenworth had a little momentous conference in the little dining saloon.

"I see the table's set for four," Mrs. Hardenworth began. "Who's the other place for—Captain Knutson?"

"I'm afraid the capital has to min' his wheel. This isn't an oceanic liner. I suppose the place is set for Miss Gilbert."

"Miss Gilbert seems to fill the horizon. May I ask how many more there are in the crew?"

"Just McNab, Forest and the cook. Both white men take turns at the wheel in open waters."

SAYS IT IS DUTY TO INDORSE IT

"I Got Wonderful Results From The Plant Juice," This Lady States

IT HELPED WHOLE SYSTEM

"I never thought that I would ever give a public indorsement for any medicine but I have derived such wonderful results from your Plant Juice that I feel it my duty to recommend it," stated Mrs. Lillian Shearer, of 1615 Sherman street.

MRS. LILLIAN SHEARER: Fort Wayne, Indiana, while talking recently with The Plant Juice Man.

"For the last three or four years I had suffered badly from bowel, liver and kidney trouble," Mrs. Shearer continued. "My bowels were irregular and constipated and caused my system to become filled with poisons. My liver was inactive and caused dizzy spells and my skin would get so yellow that I was afraid I would have yellow jaundice. My kidneys and bladder were weak and I was very nervous."

"I found your Plant Juice to be all that is claimed for it. It has benefited me more than I ever dreamed I would be benefited by any medicine. My bowels are regular; my liver is active, dizzy spells have left me and my nervous system is toned up and invigorated. In fact, it seems that my whole system is undergoing a thorough cleansing. I feel better and stronger in every way and I hope that my experience will be the means of helping others who suffer as I did."

Many people say Plant Juice has a surprising effect upon the stomach, liver and kidneys. In fact the past year, this natural medicine has given relief in several thousand cases in Lima alone.

Plant Juice is sold in Lima at Hunter's drug store at 49 Public Square, and Main and Wayne streets and at the Arzonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HIS MOTHER, MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT

When I went home last night, I found Leslie with a very high temperature. She was so feverish that I was frightened and wanted to send for the doctor.

She finally confided in me that she had received a letter from you in which you intimated she was to blame for any neglect I might have given you. I have very much to say harsh things to my mother, but certainly since my marriage to Leslie, you have absolutely been a thorn in the flesh.

I cannot understand. Why, do you know, I had dreams before my marriage that possibly you would come and live with us, and now I know that you are the last person in the world whom I would ask to do such a thing.

Right here I want to say to you that I am not going to pay that bill for painting your house. That Bradford woman said you have plenty of money in the bank to do this. I don't care so much for the money part of it. It is very probable that, had you written to me in the right spirit and asked me about painting the house, I would have been very glad to give it to you.

But the letter you wrote me had so many unkind insinuations about Leslie that I made up my mind then I should never do anything for you until you had come to your senses. Since then, of course, you have written me those terrible letters about the baby which have made matters much worse.

I am trying to write this letter as calmly as possible; consequently it must sound rather stilted. What I want to say is this:

I have given orders that any letter coming to Leslie directed by your hand and having the postmark of your home upon it is not to be opened and Leslie has promised me she will burn it without unsealing it.

In my last letter to you I said that neither Leslie nor I would come into your house until we could bring the baby. Now I will go further and say that neither Leslie nor I will answer any communication from either you or that Bradford woman unless they are written in a decent manner showing some kindness for Leslie and respect for me.

I expect you will think this is a very hard letter and I will perhaps hurt you more when I tell you that it is not nearly as hard as it would be if I said plainly how I feel toward you. I never thought that my own mother would prove so narrow minded and so selfishly self-centered as you have been.

I should not write to you this way except that I know you have an income sufficient for all your simple wants and I sincerely advise you to make arrangements with that Bradford woman to live with you. You seem to be thoroughly in sympathy with each other and I think it would be a very happy arrangement.

Do not, I beg of you, write to Leslie again. It will do you no good as she will never read the letter.

Your son,

JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE LITTLE MARQUISE, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

DEAR LITTLE MARQUISE: You certainly have had your compensations. You never had a cantankerous old mother-in-law.

I didn't know until yesterday that Jack had been having 'any trouble with his mother. I supposed she liked me very much, for didn't she give me this beautiful desk and wasn't it true that I made the acquaintance of this lovely old secret drawer and took to myself your proffer of confidential friendship?

I was literally broken-hearted when I received her letter. It seems there is an old maid in the town where she lives that she wanted her son to marry and she has never forgiven me for being young and good looking.

Sometime I think, dear little Marquise, that people never should grow old and that is probably another compensation you had, for you did not live to be very old. Old people are so hard to live with and they make such hard work of living. They never seem to think that you should have any other life but the life that they have planned for you.

Jack's mother prides herself on descent from the Mayflower, and if descent from Puritan stock means being narrow and selfish and bigoted and self-centered, then I am glad that dad came over in the steerage with nothing but his splendid physique and big brain to depend on.

Jack has been awfully angry at his mother and, of course, she lays it all to me, altho if she only knew it, it was I who kept him from going down to her house and reading the riot act to her. She is very angry over the baby, you see, particularly as Jack has insisted upon it being named after himself and, of course, John Alden is the ancestor upon whom she prides herself.

I'm sure if she could see dear little Jack she would know there never was any John Alden before him who was any sweeter than he.

I wanted Jack to let me go down to his mother and see if I couldn't make up with her, but he wouldn't let me. Said that all his life he had put up with her whims because he thought he ought to, but when it came to choosing between his wife and his mother, it was his wife every time. He remarked, "From now on I am going to run my own affairs in spite of all my distinguished ancestry."

I guess, dear little Marquise, that things even themselves up in this world. Perhaps you found that out, too, before you went away, to that other sphere. If you were not able to speak to the world of your lover and proudly proclaim yourself his wife, yet I got from your letter you never doubted his love. If you did not have a baby in your arms to love and caress you weren't harassed by an old mother-in-law and a disappointed old maid.

I am not very happy tonight, little Marquise, for Jack's mother is the only person I have ever known who didn't like your poor Leslie.

TOMORROW: Beatrice Grimshaw to Leslie—A wee bit jealous!

Delphos Wins Game Played In Mud

A scorching single to center-field with two on and two down gave Delphos a single run in the last inning just enough to defeat the Independents by a score of 2 to 1. Guy Tilton was the perpetrator of the villainous deed and it proved to be a good example of the "win your own game stuff."

Jup Plavins had poured forth his fury upon the South Clay-st grounds for five or six hours Monday morning and the field was in a terrible condition for play. As a result the best of baseball strategy and fast play was impossible. Considering the conditions, however, the game was a good exhibition of the national pastime.

When Delphos came to bat in the last frame it was hoped that the game would go extra innings. The first two men up bled the Dilton singlet and going to third on Patrick's blow to right field. Things looked blue for the Independents but Comstock stopped Bonifas' scorching to the box for the first out. Jack Malloy made a beautiful stop of Kramer's hard bouncer to right field and with two down it looked as if the game might still go into extra innings. But Tilton with two strikes on him sent the ball to the outer gardens winning the game.

For the first three innings the score was deadlocked. In the fourth frame the Delphos boys pushed over the first run of the game when Bonifas singled after two were down, went to second on a wild pitch and scored when Kramer slugged to deep right. Fish, Lima sun fielder made a perfect throw to the plate but Cunningham fumbled the ball and Delphos was leading 1 to 0.

Lima was not to be surprised as they evened the count in the fifth. Comstock got to first when Cunningham was forced at second and went to second on an error. Malloy fisted a hard grounder toward inner and in a rundown between second and third Comy was retired Malloy going to second.

Chic Wise's double to right field scored Malloy knotting the count at one all. The game remained thus until the final ninth inning. The game was as close throat as it might be, each team getting eight hits and the left on base column being practically balanced.

Under the gentle flutterings of a championship banner the Wapak Reds tried in a courageous and brave manner to subdue the Independents, Sunday, but all their ef-

As A Matter of Fact

BY HARRY BRADBURY
Sports Editor.

Is the art of base stealing gone. Where are the Stoveys, the Kelly's and Hamilton's and the Lange's of yesterday. Has the psychology of the pitcher become more profound and thereby out guessing the runner? Are we to believe that the game is becoming so fast and the players so expert that base stealing is well nigh impossible?

Some experts have featured the problem thru the exceptional mastery of the catcher over the base runner; or that it is owing to the hit-and-run play, or that the sacrifice hit is the cause, but the consensus of opinion is that the game is becoming a stereotyped form of play.

It is certain that the great catchers of the past will compare with the best there is in the game today. If this is true then the base runners do not compare to those of a decade or two ago.

The world's record for stolen bases was set by Stovey of the Athletics way back in 1888; he finished the season with a total of 156. There have been no players since to come within a thousand metres of this record. Hamilton of Philadelphia in 1891 was the next best with 115.

The runner-up was Wagner, of Pittsburgh. In twenty-one years he had 717 to his credit. He had 48 in 1901; 43 in 1902; 46 in 1903; 53 in 1904; 57 in 1905, and his average for the twenty-one years was 31.14. His predecessor, Carey, was the most prominent in the achievement, with Pittsburgh, with a total of 52 but he has surely got to work fast to equal the record of Wagner. Rice of Washington set a slightly faster

STATISTICIANS FIGURE

Able statisticians of baseball have figured that in both the major leagues there are 89,156 batsmen face the pitchers. Of these 27,058 reach first base, 19,154 of them on safe hits, 1,303 on errors that permit them to achieve the first 90 feet—645 by being hit by a pitched ball and 5,950 by bases on balls. These figures are the averages of the two leagues for five seasons. Of the 25,058 who reach first base, 17,138 arrive at second; 12,822 at third and 8,272 score.

Yet the averages of stolen bases for the two leagues are 1,332 games of the two major leagues is only 2,744, this is out of 55,988 opportunities to steal bases with only 2,744 accepting that opportunity, or to be exact slightly better than two stolen bases to a game.

The theories set down by a few of the reasons why base stealing is slowly becoming a lost virtue is not accepted; there are many sticking to the theory that it is easier at this day than a decade ago. But whatever the deduction it is certain that the spectacular base runner is slowly fading into oblivion.

players the ball was much harder to judge and throw. Patrick, Delphos first sacker, played a nice game at first. He stretched out into several odd forms on bad paws and snared them all showing that he was in the game at all times. It was impossible to steal Monday as the diamond was too slippery to get an anchorage. Runners were cautious about taking very big lead-offs.

Wise made three assists Monday bringing his record to 15 straight chances without an error. Around 300 Lima people were present. Most of the locals went over in machines. Total attendance was about 1,500.

Davis Trophy Will Remain In America

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL.)

NEW YORK — Winner of the Davis cup for the fourth year in succession, the United States, it seems certain now, will retain the championship of the world at tennis as long as William T. Tilden and William M. Johnston retain their games.

There is nothing to indicate that either of America's "Two Bills" have reached or are even near the end of their string and as long as foreign nations do not develop better players, Tilden and Johnston should be able to reign supreme even after they have slipped a little.

Seventeen nations challenged and participated in the preliminary rounds leading up to the challenge round between Australia and the United States which was finished yesterday at Forest Hills, with the Americans winning by a score of 4 to 1.

Anderson defeated Johnston most surprisingly in the first match of this year's challenge round, but it was not a deduction from the fine game played by the Australian to say that Johnston was badly off his game at that time.

The little Californian showed that his lapse of form was only momentary, by coming back Monday and giving a terrible beating to young Jack Hawkes, who was able to win only three games in the match.

Anderson is at the top of his game now and he is as old as Tilden and Johnston. His game will not improve and it follows that if the American stars are able to take him now that he will be no great menace in the future. Johnston and Tilden are no youngsters, but tennis players seem able to retain their form beyond the age that usually benches an athlete in other strenuous sports and it seems certain that both the Americans should be on their best game for at least two more years.

Reds Fail To Gain In National League Pennant Race

The prophesy that New York is near the breaking point seems well proven. Out of the last four games they have suffered three defeats. In Labor Day games they split even, but when it is considered that Boston is at the bottom of the heap, so far as the pennant race is concerned, it only goes to prove that the playing strength demonstrated in the early part of the season by the Giants is diminishing. But the appointed time does not seem to be taken advantageously by Cincinnati. In the only game played Monday, with Pittsburgh they were on the wrong end of the score, and this great advantage was lost. While the Giants lost as did Cincinnati, they gained a half game. Pittsburgh also lost but 5 points behind the Reds for second place. It is true that Cincinnati was disappointed at their poor showing, because of the fact that Pittsburgh had just lost three straight games to St. Louis.

Babe Benton got a severe baptism of base hits in the morning game, and the Pirates had the game won before it was well under way. They hammered the southpaw's offerings in the most heartless fashion. He was replaced by Herb McQuade, who held the Pirates to the end of the game. But too late the mischief had been done.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK—The Giants broke even yesterday, the Reds lost and the Pirates crept up to a position where they may be considered as serious National League contenders. The Reds now are three and a half games behind the Giants and the Pirates only one game behind the Reds. Chicago, in fourth place, is out of sight.

If Firpo should lose.

It's going 't be hard on Chile and Argentina.

Sure as fate they'll begin scrapping on that boundary line again.

But on the other hand, in case of defeat might be accused of making a noise like a Brazilian nut.

But to win would make an enduring peace between Chile and Argentina. They've got it through their skulls that the Bull can lick about all the rest of the world. And of course Chile wants to get on the safe side.

And while all this is going on Firpo studies more than right and left upper-cuts, he's learning American. Got the phrase, "see you tomorrow" down fine. Strange too, unless he's preparing against the incroachment of the tax collector. Won't do to hand Dempsey.

In the mean time Dempsey is acquiring a smattering of Spanish. It is easy to understand how confusing the fight is liable to be to the innocent spectators. Firpo's American and Dempsey's Spanish is bound to be misunderstood to everybody. And it's apt to result in somebody getting real mad, and then there'll be no more Monroe Doctrine.

WAGES HIGHEST IN U. S. HISTORY

Nation's Working Condition Commented On By Forbes

LABOR IS MORE DILIGENT

Complaints Of Inefficiency Made In Building Trades, However

(BY E. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, remarked while chatting the other day, that their employees are giving better results than they had been giving at any time since the war began. I hear the same thing from the Pittsburgh Steel district.

Complaints are rife, however, of inefficiency among building workers. Apparently, advantage is being taken of the fact that the supply falls short of the demand for building tradesmen.

On the whole, the testimony is that labor has been working more diligently during recent months. A number of industries reduced their forces somewhat during the summer dullness and this tended to send men in search of work at different centers.

Yet the inspiring fact remains that there is being paid out in the United States today more wages, measured in terms of purchasing power than ever before in the nation's history.

Have you noticed that day after day not a single railroad stock has figured among the ten most active issues dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange? The "leaders" have included such industrial issues as Davison Chemical, Marland Oil, Cosden, American Can, Baldwin Locomotive, Gulf States Steel, Famous Players.

Now, in the highest financial circles the position of the stronger railroads is regarded as more satisfactory today than it has been in years. Most of the railroads—not all of them—have been showing very satisfactory earnings. The record volume of business has meant unprecedented gross receipts, and while the net showing has not always been correspondingly high, the profits have been quite good. Generous sums have been applied to increasing and improving rolling stock, roadbed, etc.

There are "fashions" in securities, just as there are in clothes, in shoes, in pleasure resorts, in automobiles, etc. Railroad stocks are not in vogue at present. The most popular issues have been industrials, often of the speculative variety. But, without doubt, railroad stocks will again become fashionable. When they do, they promise to make a distinctly better showing—provided, of course, Congress does not queer things.

The building boom is not booming quite as much as it was.

"You city writers have been indulging in a great wall about the position of the poor wheat farmer," said a man to me yesterday reprovingly, "but don't you ever stop to think of how much money you or I would make if we didn't work hard for more months than the wheat farmer works during the year? He is not on the job with his coat soaked off all thru the year, but only a few weeks at a time. Diversified farming means working all the year. Diversified farming ought to bring better financial results, therefore, than wheat farming."

President Coolidge believes in doing his own thinking and making up his own mind. You doubtless read that he has discontinued, temporarily calling meetings of his cabinet.

A highly placed Washington official said to me this week:

"President Harding had a habit of listening to tales from subordinates and sometimes placed heads of departments in an embarrassing position."

Mr. Coolidge won't do that. He will act scrupulously thru his responsible officials.

"It is really wonderful how much confidence in the new president is felt by every one at Washington."

The outlook for resuming Baltimore and Ohio dividends is very bright.

"You will pardon me and a few other middle Western settlers for having a little titter over the discomfiture of our eastern citizens and their threatened supply of anthracite," writes a reader. "How is it that worthy Yankees will freeze to death without anthracite when many of us have never used a pound of that commodity? We believe it is no more of a necessity than cat-soup. Furthermore, all soft coal doesn't smoke up the universe. In Pittsburgh, the center of the soft coal region, there is more sunlight and less soot than you find in almost any other city of its size."

This is a good time to recall the answer to the greeting:

"How do you find business?"

"By going out after it."

Part Of Entertainment Program For Veterans

PREPARE FOR BIG PARADE

Annual Convention Is Opened At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE—(Associated Press)

—Take trips, a little business and an evening of entertainment make up today's program for the members of the G. A. R. and auxiliary bodies in annual convention here.

The heaviest convention work is set for late today when the various commanders will report to Chief of Staff George A. Hosley for parade instructions.

Last night and today traffic police regulated the transportation of the visiting G. A. R. members by commandeering any passing automobile which had a vacant seat, and advising the driver of the soldier's destination, with instruction to carry him there.

Tonight's entertainment will consist of a large display of fireworks, combined with a sham battle in which twelve companies of Wisconsin national guard will demonstrate the usages of modern warfare in an attempt to prevent the landing of the complement of four submarine chasers, which arrived here today for the "invasion."

In addition, the days of the Civil war will be depicted in a floating display of fireworks which will show among other things, General Lee's surrender and a Civil war battle.

THIRD PAYMENT FEDERAL INCOME TAX DUE SEPT. 15

Eleven days remain for the people to pay the third installment of their federal income tax, due September 15, J. C. Marsh, deputy collector of internal revenue, announced Tuesday. He said that if the third installment is not paid, then the entire amount of the tax becomes due and payable together with interest at the rate of one per cent per month and a penalty of 25 per cent on the entire amount of the tax.

Explaining the penalty, Marsh said that if a person's tax was $20 and that person had paid $10 and then failed to pay the September installment of $5, the entire $20 becomes due and the 25 per cent penalty attached to the entire $20.

He said the government has authority to attach whatever property is necessary to satisfy its claim for the tax.

ITALY MAY QUIT NATION LEAGUE

Demands Hands Off In Controversy With Greece

(By Associated Press)

As the council of the League of Nations considers the Greco-Italian dispute, Premier Mussolini lets it be known that he is ready to recall the Italian delegates from Geneva in case the league does not share Italy's opinion that the controversy affecting directly the honor and dignity of Italy, is between Rome and Athens only. Reports of the Italian position reaching Geneva also contain the information that Italy is willing to have the permanent court of international justice pass on the competence of the league to intervene. The court in the opinion of league officials would decide unhesitatingly that the league had authority.

The impression prevails at Geneva that the crisis between Italy and Greece is less strained.

"Fashion Plate Revue" Is New Orpheum Attraction

"The Fashion Plate Revue," a musical comedy, a fashion parade, a beauty show, all combined into one delightful entertainment, is the attraction at the New Orpheum theatre for the first half of this week, continuing thru Wednesday night. Featured in the cast are such well known entertainers as Murphy Levan, Curley Monette and "Baby Edith," world famous Javonville artist, to say nothing of the chorus of beautiful young women.

The costumes are declared to be gorgeous in the extreme. The scenic settings are of unusual beauty and subtlety.

There will be a complete change of bill at the matinee Thursday, the offering for the last half of the week will be "What the Public Demands," which will be shown as an extra attraction.

"Hollywood" Lives Up to Promises at Quilna

In marked sharpness to advance notices "Hollywood," at the Quilna is proving to be a picture which is living up to all promises. And that is something to be wondered at. It is a big picture, big in every phase that the meaning implies, and there is nothing characterizing its intrinsic worth, while cheap showmanship predominates in the handling of the subject the trend never stoops to cheap laughs or to cheaper sentiment. Perhaps the most suitable phrase would be to say that it is legitimate, solid, strong in construction and sequence. If there is criticism, then the phrase to big, might be used, and this is just as true in atmosphere as it is in the number of selected stars. When one begins to think of these, the

"Pearl of Hawaii," at Faurot, Pleases

If compliments are in order, then hand a goodly sized one to Manager Clark, because in his selection of the five acts of vaudeville, which make up the bill at the Faurot for the first four days of the week, could hardly be improved upon, at least within the bounds of reason. There is not a single act, which does not come in for praise, so far as clean and palatable vaudeville is concerned. Some of them extremely refreshing from a paucity of good acts one expects on the ordinary bill.

But the bright, particular spot, and one that will cater to the ideals of refinement is The Pearl of Hawaii. There is nothing common-place about it; it would shine on a bill where the very cream do in cream

There is plenty to keep the lover of adventure on the qui vive in the picture "Loyal Lives," which is being shown at the Lyric. There is one of the most realistic fights in a river, in this romance built around the United States Mail Service, that was ever depicted on the screen. It is sufficiently realistic to bring shudders to the observer.

Leader Declares Coal Strike Will Make Or Mar President

IS REAL TEST FOR COOLIDGE

Ralston, of Indiana, Said To Be Leader With Democrats

NEW YORK — (Associated Press) — The coal strike may make or mar President Coolidge's chances for nomination at the 1924 Republican convention, in the opinion of Frederick W. Upham, treasurer of the national Republican committee, who left it to be known on returning yesterday from abroad that Chicago being the "swing" place for it, probably would be the scene of the next Republican national convention. That city, he said, is the choice of a majority of the committee.

Upham predicted that President Coolidge would be nominated next year to succeed himself. "If he has a chance meantime to demonstrate his ability and if he chooses to be a candidate."

"The president," he added, "has many hurdles to negotiate between now and next June, and he hasn't demonstrated what he can or will do. If he seeks the nomination he will be in the position of a pole horse because he will go into the convention as the reigning head of 'his party.'"

Other "formidable" candidates, Upham thought, would be Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, Senator Johnson of California and former Governor Lowden of Illinois. Albert Lasker, former chairman of the United States shipping board, has consented to manage Senator Johnson's campaign, he added.

RALSTON MAY BE NAMED

Senator Ralston of Indiana has been a good chance as a candidate for the Democratic nomination, Upham said he had feared from members of the Democratic national committee.

Upham predicted that Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., will be President some day "if he is not too ambitious and does not try to run too soon."

President Coolidge would be an ideal candidate for the party to run in 1924 "because he's light on his expense account," Upham said, citing this one of the qualifications which made the president popular with him in the days when Calvin Coolidge was only an industrious servant of the party.

"I never knew a man who'd go out and make a couple of campaign speeches and send in as small an expense account as 'Cal,'" said Upham. "He didn't know what it was to pad an account."

"Even as vice-president, he refused to travel in a Pullman drawing room. A berth, upper or lower is good enough for me," he would say. "The funds of the party are sacred." He was a rare politician in that respect.

After this date, Sept. 4, I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by any else than myself.

I sure had great luck yesterday. How's that, old man?
I was going to the races and I missed the train.

B. S. Miller, W. Wayne-st., overheard a conversation on the merits and demerits of politeness. One of the speakers was telling about the courtesy of the French. "There is nothing in it but wind," he said.
"That's all very well," said his friend who is partial to the French. "Neither is there anything in an automobile tire except wind but it eases the jolts along life's highways wonderfully."

W. C. Stagle, Shawnee-av., was motoring thru the country recently when he observed a peculiar circumstance. On a certain house was a sign reading, "For Sale, Inquire Within," on a portion of the house while a short distance away was a sign "Keep Out."

Elias Wells, N. Collett-st., was in a movie house the other night when a picture of a balloon vendor was flashed on the screen. A mail boy began to cry and covered his father to buy him a balloon.

HAY FEVER

PROMPTLY RELIEVED BY NEW DISCOVERY

Eyes Quit Itching. Nose Stops Running and Burning. Makes Life Worth Living. Money Refunded if It Fails.

At last! Real relief for hay fever. The long search by scientific men for some thing that would counteract the effect of pollen has resulted in a new discovery. It is now possible to go through the hay fever season and hardly know that you ever had this terrible affliction.

Diapollin is the name of this new compound. It is absolutely harmless, contains no habit-forming drugs. Simply apply it to the nostrils and at once the itching, sneezing, and watery eyes stop. The nose clears up and the eyes become normal. The redness and itching of the eyes cease and soon cease almost entirely. A few applications a day enable you to work in comfort and sleep in peace.

Hay fever is caused by pollen from weeds, vegetation, etc., which irritates the mucous lining of the nose. Diapollin keeps this pollen infection under such control that it doesn't make your life miserable. It is easy to use and acts like magic.

"Gave Wonderful Relief"
"I started using Diapollin for hay fever last July, and obtained most wonderful relief. For the first time in many years, I slept soundly during the hay fever season, and was able to work with very little of the usual sneezing and watery eyes. I recommended Diapollin to several others, and all of them received the same benefit. It did."—C. H. Rogers, Mar. Stationery, Hotel, 26 So. Central Ave., Indianapolis.

"My First Real Relief"

"I have found complete relief through Diapollin all through the Rose and Hay fever seasons. My suffering used to be very severe. Diapollin cleared my head, stopped the dripping of the nose, made me breathing easy and in fact made it possible for me to work and get a good night's sleep. It is the first real relief I ever found and has had no bad effect."—W. J. Walker, 733 Edgemont Ave., Indianapolis.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY

You can try Diapollin without risking a penny. If it fails to please you, your money will be promptly refunded. No time about it—try Diapollin at our risk. At your druggist or send $2 for package, we will prepaid with our money-back guarantee, endorsed by a leading Indianapolis bank.
